3.7.4 Determination of Common Line Charges (Cont'd)

(C) (Cont'd)

If a billing dispute arises concerning the customer provided report, the Telephone Company will request the customer to provide the data the customer used to develop the report. The customer shall supply the data within 30 days of the Telephone Company request. If the customer fails to provide the requested data within 30 days, the Telephone Company will apply originating access charges.

When this report is not available to the Telephone Company until after billing, it shall be used by the Telephone Company to calculate and post a credit or debit to the customer's account. The credit or debit shall be posted to the customer's account within 30 days of the receipt of the report. The credit or debit shall be calculated by multiplying the number of access minutes of use, for which a credit or debit is determined to be applicable, times the difference between the terminating and originating Carrier Common Line charges in effect when the calls were completed.

If the customer does not supply the monthly reports, the Telephone Company will assume the common line percentages to be the same as those provided in the last monthly report. No prorating or back billing will be done based on the report.

For those cases in which a monthly report has never been received from the customer, the originating per minute access charges will apply to all 700, 800 series and 900 calls.
